Charitable Donation Update

AtaLoss

Through our Charitable Metal Recycling Scheme, we were pleased to donate £10,000 to AtaLoss, nominated by our Woking team.

AtaLoss is a UK wide bereavement charity established in 2016, with a mission to ensure that no one is left without support when someone dies. The charity works to make bereavement support easier to find and access, helping people navigate the practical and emotional challenges that can follow the loss of someone close.

Finding the right support

Everyone experiences grief differently, and knowing where to turn for help can sometimes feel overwhelming. AtaLoss.org provides a central place for bereaved people to find information, guidance and support services suited to their individual circumstances.

Its website allows people to search for support based on who has died, the circumstances of the death, their age and location. It brings together more than 2,000 services and resources, including counselling, helplines, peer support, specialist organisations and practical advice.

The website has helped more than 350,000 visitors find information and support, making it an important resource for people across the UK who may otherwise struggle to know where to turn.

Making a difference

The reach of AtaLoss continues to grow, with its Bereavement Journey programme now available in almost 670 locations across the UK. Its website receives around 600 visitors every day, helping people find the support they need. Our £10,000 donation will contribute towards the charity's continued work, helping it reach more people and strengthen bereavement support within communities.

We would like to thank AtaLoss for the important work they do supporting bereaved people and families across the UK, and our Woking team for nominating the charity to receive this donation.
